REBUILDING CRYSTAL PALACE

AN ART WORKSHOP CELEBRATING THE CHANCE BROTHERS' ICONIC GLASSWORKS IN SMETHWICK, SANDWELL

In 1851, Smethwick's Chance Brothers supplied the glass for London's Crystal Palace — a glittering marvel of light and innovation.

In this FREE workshop, you'll help "rebuild" the Palace as a collaborative artwork: painting and drawing its glowing structure, then filling it with our own characters, inventions and fantastical creatures. Re-imagining old histories and thinking of new futures!

Open to all, no experience needed with plenty of materials provided. Book on the QR code or show up on the day.

DATE: SAT 22 NOVEMBER 2025

TIME: 10:30 – 12:30

Sandwell Poetry Laureate Scheme coming soon!

Sandwell Metropolitan Borough Council, Charlotte McDermott, and a group of incredible experts will be launching the Sandwell Poet Laureate Programme within the next year! The Laureate scheme will seek to institute a Sandwell Poet Laureate and Sandwell Young Poet Laureate, through the means of a writing competition with a panel of proficient judges, that will be able to “tell the Sandwell Story and inspire the people of Sandwell to maximise their own creative potential.”

To do this, a team of experts will be gathered that represent the diverse, multi-faceted poetry community around the West Midlands and within Sandwell. We will launch an open mic pilot in 2026 to bring people together and read, write, and above all perform poetry in safe, accessible spaces, celebrating the beauty and unique twang of Sandwell, the Black Country, and the surrounding areas. This project will unite Sandwell and its towns under a poetical banner, providing opportunities for people of different backgrounds to take part in workshops, open mic events, festivals, charity fundraising, creative promotion, and many other delightful artistic ventures.

Congratulations to Big Bear Music as Birmingham Jazz & Blues Festival named Event of the Year

BIRMINGHAM'S long-running Jazz & Blues Festival has been named the city's best event at a prestigious awards ceremony – only months after local government funding cuts threatened its very existence.

The festival, which this year boasted a remarkable 178 live performances at 101 venues, most of them offering free admission, was named 'Festival or Event of the Year' at the annual Birmingham Awards.
